

Mothers to March On Polio Tuesday

Mrs. Snedeker,
Noted Author,
Dies Here At 84

Caroline Dale Snedeker died in St. Louis Sunday, Jan. 22 at age of 84.

For the last thirty years she made her home here with her cousin, Miss Louise Crawford. She was later joined by her sister, Mrs. Nina Stillwell. These two talented women lived in harmony. Their literary and artistic temperaments made them companions of each other.

Mrs. Snedeker, who was world famous in the literary field, died most of her literary genius in the writing of children's stories. However, she contributed several novels, and a number of books which have been used as textbooks in colleges for adult reading public.

Her marriage to an Episcopal minister greatly influenced her writing, for she joined with him in earnest study of the Bible. This led to the publishing of two religious books, and two or three unpublished manuscripts of a nature.

A descendant of the famous poet Owen, her great-grandfather, she inherited many of the traits that this great philanthropist, philosopher and writer passed on to his descendants, and a particular love for and interest in children. It was this man who worked untiringly in England and in America for the establishment of child welfare.

Mrs. Snedeker was born in New Harmony, Indiana, a town bought and owned by her grandfather, in a house that originally was the laboratories of the first geological society in America.

Although the building had been converted into a dwelling, reminders of its original purpose stood, and over the door of the room of Mrs. Snedeker a tablet presided. She always had a nearness to that prehistoric hill, and no doubt the environs of her early life led to many of the works accomplished in her literary career.

It is evident that the town of New Harmony, which boasted of an Early American educational center, greatly influenced the life of Caroline Snedeker. At age of nine she had her first book of verse published, and a few years later she wrote plays for three younger sisters and brothers.

Then followed years of musical study. She was graduated with honors from the College of Music in Cincinnati, pursued the study of musical composition in New York, and was a concert pianist. Intermittently she published short stories in the St. Nicholas and other magazines, but it was until after her marriage that she published her first book. For work she had studied intensively for seven years.

Then followed the publication of seven books, the final one having been published in her 84th year.

Her husband, Charles H. Snedeker, died in 1926 in New York. They were then residing in New York, and she then moved to Bay St. Louis, where she made her home until death.

Mrs. Snedeker is survived by a son, Carl Snedeker, of Largo, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Nina Stillwell, of Bay St. Louis; a cousin, Miss Louise Crawford, of Bay St. Louis.

Funeral services were under the direction of Fahy Funeral Home, a religious service from Christ Episcopal Church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was in Oak Cemetery, Pass Christian.

"That's right," said Mrs. Esposito. "You know I've been trying to find him for years to find him."

"Listen," said Esposito. "Here's what's over the week end at a Joseph W. Selle at Bay St. Louis. He and his wife, that's your father's name, isn't it? Let's go to the funeral home."

The Espositos jumped in their car and headed toward Bay St. Louis.

There they found the man listed in the phone book as Joseph W. Selle. He was the right one. He and his daughter threw their arms around each other.

"And I've been looking, too," said the daughter, whose address other's nose, said the father.

PHILLIPS HEADS GROUP TO OPPOSE TAX ON TAX

A group of Gulf Coast lawmakers Monday proposed a bill to take the "tax on tax" off such items as gasoline, tobacco and beer which the legislature voted last year.

Rep. Walter Phillips, Hancock County, headed the group proposing the bill. Joining him in the bill were Representatives Karl Wiesenburg, Jackson County, Daniel Guice, Harrison County, and Upton Sisson, Harrison County.

The 1955 act had provided that the state excise tax on the three commodities be counted in the sale price for sales tax purposes. This meant, for example, that the sales tax on a gallon of gasoline selling for 30c a gallon would apply to the full price, including the 7c state gasoline tax.

State tax commission officers estimated that the state is getting around $1,450,000 a year in additional revenue from the "tax on tax" provision written in the law in 1955.

Gasoline accounts for $1,115,000, tobacco for $200,000 and beer for $120,000 of that amount.

Hancock County Forestry Association Organized

Hire Detectives; Estimate $80,000 Damage To Timber Crop

Detectives have been hired by the newly formed Hancock County Forestry Association to investigate the recent woods fires which burned over 10,000 acres of timberland.

These fires did an estimated $80,000 damage to the timber crop in Hancock County.

It is also anticipated that the FBI will be brought in to help apprehend the criminals.

Deliberate Woods Burning Is A Felony

H. B. No. 120: Sec 1, Chap 222 Laws of 1954

If any person willfully, maliciously, and feloniously sets on fire any woods, meadow, marsh, field or prairie, not his own, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall, upon conviction, be sentenced to the state penitentiary for not more than two (2) years nor less than one (1) year, or fined not less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) or both, in the discretion of the court.

Forest Fire Losses

to Hancock County's timberland owners are greater than most people realize. The future of our number one industry, forest products, is not bright unless growing timber replaces that which is used. So long as forest fires continue to claim great portions of our young timber this source of cash to Hancock County shall be in danger.

The wishes of the majority of Hancock County's people are expressed in the passing of laws governing all of the people. Those who act against these laws are therefore acting against the best interests of the people with whom they live. The hunter who thoughtlessly drops a match, starting a forest fire on land he does not own is violating the law and is liable for his actions. The farmer who burns his field and lets it get into someone else's woods has broken the law.

In short, anyone who, thoughtlessly or otherwise, causes fire damage to property of another without his consent has broken the law and is liable civilly, criminally, or both.

Association Objectives

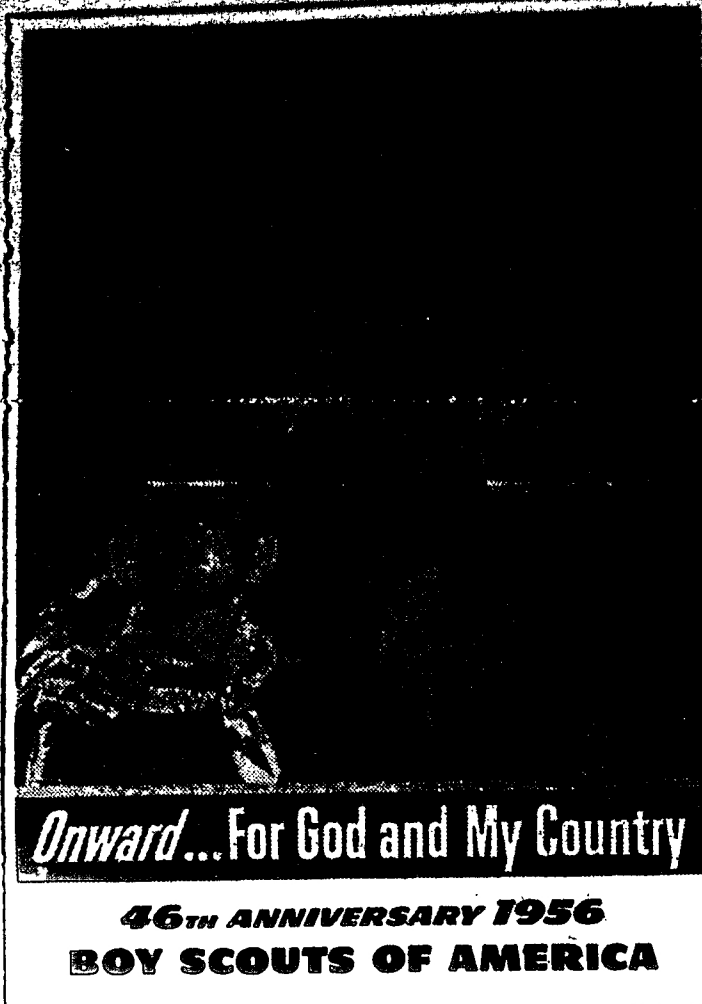

A group of forestry-minded people of Hancock County met at the Agricultural Building Saturday and organized a Hancock County Forestry Association.

The Association set forth its objectives as follows:

1. To advance the cause of forestry and to promote the scientific utilization of raw materials of forests and farms.
2. To assist in securing better county forest fire protection.
3. To assist in determining and securing adoption of a proper forest policy.
4. To arouse public interest in the utilization and conservation of the county forest and agricultural crops.
5. To stimulate the support and enforcement of the wild life laws including aid in the apprehension of any person or persons setting woods fires.

Parties interested in becoming members of the Association, please contact the County Agent, Howard Simmons, or the County Forester, Marion T. Parker.

Since 1910, Scouting has served over 24,500,000 boys and adult leaders.

The new Four-Year Program, "Onward for God and My Country," is launched in 1956 to help prepare America's boys to live in today's world and to prepare them to carry their full share in the years ahead.

Demonstrations and exhibits will dramatize the purposes of the Boy Scouts of America and its rich heritage.

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

by CONGRESSMAN WEL. M. COLMIE

THE NATION'S FINANCES

President Eisenhower has submitted to the Congress his budget message for the fiscal year 1957. As is generally known, the Government's affairs are conducted on a fiscal year running from July 1 to June 30 rather than on the calendar year. The budget is, of course, not binding on the Congress but since it is the result of a study by the various departments of the Government, it is largely followed by the Congress.

After the submission of the Budget to Congress the Appropriations sub-committees hear the experts of the various departments who naturally attempt to justify the amounts requested to run their particular departments of the Government. The sub-committees, as stated, generally follow the recommendations of the departments and then make their recommendations to the full Appropriations Committee. The end result is something generally in the neighborhood of the President's recommendations.

Since the Government has grown into such gigantic proportions and the fields of operation of the Government are so multitudinous, the President's Budget which he sends to Congress is a document roughly resembling in volume of a Sears Roebuck catalog. It spells out and breaks down in some detail the various amounts required to operate and sustain the many projects of Governmental endeavor within the different departments of the Government.

But even with this detail and with the further information in the form of testimony before the Appropriations Committee in justification of these departmental requests, the Committee and the Congress are at the mercy of the departments' experts. The Budget has become so big and the operations of the government so complex that it is no longer possible for Congress to maintain the type of check on expenditures that was contemplated by the Founding Fathers. For that reason have joined Senator McClellan in sponsoring legislation to set up a Joint Committee on the Budget, with a staff of experts capable of informing Congress independently of the government departments as to the necessity of each request.

A Balanced But Still Fantastic Budget

The 1957 Budget submitted by President Eisenhower called for expenditures of nearly 66 billion dollars. That is more than was spent at the height of the Korean War in 1952. Further, it represents an increase in spending of 1 1/2 billion dollars. The only encouraging thing about it is that it is achieved in spite of this failure to cut expenses, thanks only to rising receipts. Even the small surplus anticipated would be wiped out if taxes were cut or the tax receipts do not come up to the estimate.

With the Administration requesting a long-range foreign aid program and costly new domestic programs being proposed, the new Budget gives cold comfort to anyone concerned over the fact that the national debt now stands at $279,725,529,994.1. Incidentally, the interest on the national debt is now in excess of one million dollars a day.

The sure way to balance the Budget and give some badly needed tax relief would be to stop wasting Government money at home and stop trying to buy friends abroad with foreign aid.

NY HEALTH COMMISSIONER PRAISES FLUORIDATION IN TOOTH DECAY PREVENTION

Whatever doubts that may have existed about the effectiveness of fluoridation of water in preventing tooth decay should be erased by the statement of New York State Health Commissioner Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe quite recently made.

Dr. Hilleboe reported that a ten year study of fluoridation in Newburg and Kingston, N. Y., has provided "irrefutable evidence" that it is safe and effective. In fact, he pointed out, the study showed that dental decay was 58 per cent less among children who had been drinking fluoridated water all their lives than among those who had been drinking untreated water.

The two towns, each of about 30,000 population, cooperated in the tests. Newburg treated its water with sodium fluoride to bring fluorine content up to 1.0 parts per million.

Kingston continued to use its same fluoride-deficient water supply. The results, now officially provided by Dr. Hilleboe, shows that fluoride was effective for children of all age groups but most effective on those who drank fluoridated water from birth.

No physical differences in growth, bone structure, blood or other development were noted. There were not any mottled teeth. Further extensive tests showed no "difference of medical significance between the two groups."

The weight of evidence on the side of fluoridation continues to mount. This New York test should end all hesitation of municipal authorities who have rejected fluoridation up to now.

SHRIMP PRICES TO CONTINUE HIGH

Shrimp prices which advanced rather unexpectedly during the autumn months will continue high through Lent, the fish and wildlife service estimates.

Hurricanes interfered with harvesting in the Gulf of Mexico during the fall months, resulting in a declining catch. With the short supply, many buyers apparently entered the market simultaneously with a resulting rise in prices.

Some buyer resistance was noted late in December, but since holdings will probably not increase this quarter, prices will continue at a high level, the service expects.

EASTLAND PRAMMED BY STATE SENATE

The state senate Monday added its approval to a resolution commending US Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi for his work with the senate internal security committee against communism.

Eastland had been commended last week when the House adopted unanimously a resolution proposed by Rep. James McGowan of Hancock County. The same resolution won speedy approval in the Senate Monday.

U. S. Gov. Carroll Gartin, president of the Senate, taking the floor in an unusual gesture urged adoption of the resolution. "I think we all agree that Senator Eastland is waging a great fight not only on behalf of the South, Mc Don. We should be behind him."

Little Theatre Launches Tenth Year In Bay

By VICKI L. HILL

Launching into its tenth year as a successful organization, the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is formulating plans for an equally interesting program for the forthcoming season.

With a list of officers such as this year's line-up boasts it is expected that enthusiasm will run high both in activity and renewed interest among our patrons.

Heading the organization as President is Phillip Allison. Phil is one of the best liked participants in the movement, having worked diligently and consistently throughout many years and in almost every capacity, towards making this social, civic, recreational group a remarkable one. In addition Allison possesses a rare combination of humility and an ambitious energy which chalks him up as a definite favorite, both on the boards and as a co-worker.

This writer is sure that Phil's popularity will do much towards encouraging the goal of three hundred or more members that the organization has set for this year.

Back with the theatre after an unavoidable absence, it Herbert Wise, who as Business Manager is full of practical and fresh ideas as well as personal enthusiasm and has already gone to work towards revolving the wheels of progress in the right direction.

Kay Ripple has been selected as Production Manager for the season. This has been a wise choice, since Kay is one of those genuine people whom everyone admires, as well as a consecrated worker. She has acquired distinction as a thespian despite the fact she has had no particular training in dramatics, but nevertheless has remained unspooled, never losing sight of the fact that the myriads of menial labors connected with the operation of a Little Theatre Movement are beyond her indulgence. Kay is busy on the ensuing program, having already lined up a number of directors and set her play-reading committee to work on a number of prospective scripts.

Rounding out the members of the Board for 1956 are Mrs. C. D.

Blair as Vice President; Mr. Mark Solomon as Treasurer; and Mrs. Lloyd Griffith as Secretary, whose past diligence will aid in the completion of an illustrious season. If the writer may be forgiven for speculating an agreement would like to mention the excellent job Eric Kirkpatrick is doing as membership chairman. Despite Eric's modesty in wishing not to be given any particular mention or credit, we could hardly conclude this article if we eliminated him. He has devised a formidable plan for interesting new members and already has a number of renewals to his credit. He has been a devoted worker in the theatre for years despite periods of illness and still remains one of the organization's more valued members. As House Chairman Lillian Wise can work in close cooperation with husband Herbert in operating that important part of the movement.

Sue Goldman has been re-elected as Hospitality Chairman and, of course, will manage it in her usual judicious manner. Two newcomers have been assigned to take care of the grounds, Bill and Eudine Schulingkamp. There is the sort of spirit which still remains to the unified efforts of the membership. Plans are being made to beautify the grounds with additional shrubs and landscaping. The new sign which heralds the passer-by was executed by Mr. Homer Smith of Long Beach and is an attractive asset.

Our patrons are urged to pay their 1956 dues promptly. This enables the Board of Directors to make its budget for the year and insures better entertainment for your pleasure. The membership is, as usual, $5.00 for the season, which is economical insofar as the fact that door admission is $1.50 a performance. In addition to this regular subscribers are, in reality, investors in a valuable enterprise. Your dues may be mailed to P. O. Box 342. New members are most welcome. There is no closed membership and anyone interested in joining is invited to contact Mr. Kirkpatrick or any member of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre.

STATE COLLEGE OFFERING

FULL COURSE IN FORESTRY

Several years ago people who had to pay taxes on big tracts of land were frequently referred to as being "land poor." More recently there has been a growing public awareness that reforestation and proper management can actually turn barren acres into sources of wealth.

But until now there has been a big stumbling block in the way of reforestation. Government agencies, land-owning industries, and private land owners who wanted to put idle acres to work growing trees met a common problem: there just weren't enough trained foresters around with the know-how to oversee all the reforestation projects adequately.

Now Mississippi State College is doing something about that shortage. In the second year after it was established at the land-grant college, there are 100 students enrolled in the four-year, professional forestry curriculum. Last year there were half that many—and interest shown in the course by high school students indicates that the enrollment will increase again next fall.

Forestry students at State get a well-rounded course of instruction in all phases of their specialty from the eight professional foresters on the staff, plus thorough training in such related fields as botany and zoology.

Among the courses pertaining specifically to forestry are classes in such subject matter areas as: (1) growing trees, (2) forestry management, (3) utilization of forest products, (4) forestry economics, (5) fire prevention and control and (6) disease and insect damage control.

LET'S ANCHOR THE FLEET HERE

FROM EASTER TO LABOR DAY the small boat fleet invades the community, hauled here on trailers by tourists, week-end visitors and summer residents.

Crying need for a place to launch and harbor these small boats long has been evidenced in Bay St. Louis.

Our summer tourist and resident trade—a prime source of revenue for the community—would be materially benefited by such a facility, to say nothing of the convenience to our own permanent residents.

True, such a program would be costly. And it would require the combined efforts of the whole community to put it across.

But such a program would be a natural for some such organization as The American Legion to initiate. One group or organization possible could not put such a project across unassisted, but we mention the Legion as a likely instigator of such a plan due to their beach-front facilities and their record of civic-mindedness and community benefits, such as their pier and beach, maintained at considerable expense, for the use of the public.

Another public-spirited and hard-hitting organization is the Knights of Columbus, which has earned a reputation for community mindedness and has the drive to put its projects across. And there are many others.

In addition to the summer folks, a majority of the families living in the Bay own small boats. Most of these boat-owners are forced to drag their boats to the end of the seawall to launch them. There's no protected harbor where small boats can be left overboard for the week end. They must be hauled out and relaunched with each use—sometimes two or three times from Friday to Sunday night.

The Yacht Club provides such conveniences for their members, but their facilities are limited and the cost prohibitive for many small boat owners. And most of the local commercial shipyards and fishing camps are located on the rivers, entailing a considerable voyage for a small boat to reach the waters "out front" for skiing, fishing, or just general "floating around."

This community has been able to put over about any project it wanted and needed—so this should not be beyond our capabilities. And there is an obvious need for a launching site and harbor for small craft.

TALK ON LANDSCAPING HIGHLIGHTS MEETING OF BAY GARDEN CLUB THURS.

Landscaping and proper planting season constituted the subject of the talk given last Thursday by E. A. Holmes, landscape architect, to the Bay Garden Club.

Holmes, son of the State Park Commissioner, was the guest of the club at their January meeting. He told in detail the planning by the State Park Commission on the beautification of the neutral grounds and road shoulders in Harrison County, and advised the Garden Club members as to appropriate shrubs and foliage it would be wise to select for the beautification by planting in Hancock County.

Last year, with the assistance of the State Park Commission and Highway Department, the Bay-Waveland Garden Club began this program with the planting of a number of double red oleander trees along Highway 90 west of the Bay St. Louis Bridge.

Following Holmes on the program, Al Vought, local camellia fancier, gave interesting information on a program to plant which discloses so many camellia blooms. He told of treatment for the plants necessary to prevent and cure this blight which is very prevalent on the camellia blooms in this section of the country.

A report of the Board meeting which was held Monday was given by the secretary.

Among the new business discussed by the club was the matter of a float in the Mardi Gras parade. It was voted to make such an entry. It is the first time the club has presented a float in the parade, which is staged each year by the PTA of Bay High School and has become quite a large-scale venture for celebrating Mardi Gras in Bay St. Louis.

Plans for participation in the five day Gulf Coast Spring picnic by the Bay-Waveland Club were told by Mrs. Leo Seal, chairman for the local club in the Coast Council Pilgrimage, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County will have the closing day of the Pilgrimage, March 19. A number of the finest gardens in this county have been secured by Mrs. Seal to be opened on that date for the pilgrims, and Mrs. E. M. Brignac will entertain at a morning coffee, which has become a custom with her as official opening of the day here. At noon, luncheon will be served at the Yacht Club and the day will close with a tea at one of the gardens.

Mrs. N. L. Carter, hostess for the meeting, selected an exquisite arrangement of red camellias to center the dining table, from which tea was served following the business meeting. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Carter were Mrs. E. M. Brignac, Mrs. T. E. Shafer, Mrs. H. W. Williams, Mrs. L. T. Boyd, Mrs. J. Cyril Glover, Mrs. John Dicks, Mrs. Ed Carriere, Mrs. J. Hubbard Jr. and Mrs. Ed Heath Jr.

Miss Gaydell Cue spent last week end in Bay St. Louis with her family. She is a student at MSCW in Columbia.

ANTIRABIES SERUM STORED TO TREAT VETERINARIANS

Because of the exceptional handling of rabies dogs, the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson has stored a special emergency supply of antirabies serum for treatment of Mississippi veterinarians who may require it.

The serum was officially accepted today in ceremonies attended by Dr. Billie U. Flynn of Canton, representing the Mississippi Veterinary Medical Association; Dr. Warren C. Bell, director of laboratories at the University Medical Center, and Dr. Richard Winters of New Orleans.

Dr. Winters is professional veterinarian representative for Lederle Laboratories Division, American Cyanamid Co., the organization which developed the emergency supply was a gift from Lederle to Mississippi veterinarians whom he described as the first line of defense against rabies. "American veterinarians must cope with 5,000 rabid dogs every year," Dr. Winters explained. "In addition, cats and even cows are susceptible and have been known to bite veterinarians. It is the rare practitioner who completes his professional career without need to take the standard Pasteur treatment at least once. In areas where rabies is prevalent, many veterinarians have undergone several such painful, dangerous treatment."

Antirabies serum, used as an adjunct to the Pasteur treatment, offers an extra margin of safety in the treatment of people who have been exposed to rabies, especially in cases of animal bites.

Teacher Supply Critical Says Harvard Head

The president of Harvard University said in New Orleans Monday that the "expanded life" expanding then the country is going to have to come up with more and better teachers.

The supply of teachers, teachers at all levels, is one of the most pressing needs in the nation, said Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of the famed 320-year-old university at Cambridge, Mass.

And Harvard, with a faculty of 3000, needs them, too, he said.

"That's our major problem," he said. "We need teachers at every level, but we're going to have to have a lot of them at the college level."

How to get them? "I wish I knew the answer," said Dr. Pusey. "But it goes without saying that we've got to pay them more."

Dr. Pusey arrived in New Orleans over the week-end to address the Harvard Club of Louisiana Monday night. He is on a two-week cross-country tour to meet with Harvard alumni.

Dr. Pusey suggested that it is the responsibility of today's teachers to encourage their students to enter graduate schools of arts and sciences to acquire their PhD and to enter the ranks of the teaching profession.

"Teaching," he went on, "can be as exciting as medicine or business or law. But the public must learn that the teacher also needs standing."

It is mainly a job of recruitment, Dr. Pusey explained. "Faculty members must recruit young people. It is a matter of a lot of people making little efforts."

Dr. Pusey, at 48, is the first Middle Westerner ever to head Harvard. He was elected to the post in June, 1953. A native of Council Bluffs, Iowa, he has long been a student of general education and throughout his career has emphasized the importance of a sound education in the liberal arts.

He also had something to say on the subject of financial income. "Harvard is considered to be tremendously rich," he said, "but our medical school, for example, needs a great deal of money."

Harvard's vast research activities, he explained, demand a continuing flow of dollars.

The university's present endowment has a market value of $450 million, he said, but it costs about $43 million a year to operate the school. Only one-quarter of the income is derived from tuitions, he said, another quarter from endowments, another quarter from annual grants and gifts and the rest from miscellaneous activities. In this connection, Dr. Pusey said he favors an increase in corporate giving.

"America is beginning to see that these investments are not charity but are investments in keeping our expanded life going," he said. "The need for trained people continues to increase."

In addition to the club luncheon, Dr. Pusey's Monday schedule called for visits to the campuses of Tulane and Dillard universities.

WAVELAND WANDERINGS

by
GEORGETTE B. HALL

The March of Dimes Drive will be over at the end of this month in Hancock County. If you haven't given, please make your contributions now.

The many dimes added will help children to walk again and give more fortunate than those afflicted their future life. We who are them hope and confidence for ed should "dig deep" to help this worthy cause. Hancock County has really helped those who need it in the past and will continue to help those who need it. Let's just not meet a quota, let's go over the top!

Remember Saturday, January 28! There will be a spaghetti and meat ball dinner served in the lunch room located in the Town Hall of Waveland. The proceeds from the dinner will be added to a fund for the building of a youth center in Waveland. This is a fine gesture on the part of those who are interested in this project and it is hoped that there will be a good turnout. Prices are: Adults, $1.00; Children 50c.

Mark this date down in your dates to remember, too. On Feb. 11 there will be a dance at the Top Hat in Waveland. All proceeds will be donated to the Waveland Fire Department. Admission is $1.00.

Mr. Roy Webre of Bay St. Louis conducted the service on Sunday at the Waveland Methodist Church, due to the absence of the Rev. A. M. Ellison who was ill. Mr. Webre's message was in structure and appreciated by those present.

Mr. Roger Bordages has been home from work for the past week due to a severe cold. Everyone wishes him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Asher and Mrs. Ruth Meilieu motored to Picayune Sunday. They visited Mrs. Thomas Spiers who is confined in the Picayune Hospital due to illness. Her many friends send best wishes for a return home soon.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Varnell upon the birth last week in a Gulfport Hospital of their first child, a son. The infant weighed 10 pounds four ounces at birth. Mrs. Varnell is the former Miss Margaret Zimmerman of Waveland.

The Rev. M. J. Costello of St. Clare's Catholic Church baptized four men this past Saturday at 9 in the morning. The men and their sponsors were Mr. Alex Hunter, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Frey; Mr. Armand Walker, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Saucier Sr.; Mr. R. J. Ladner, sponsored by Mrs. John Erskine and Mr. Carl Thomas; and Mr. Carl Carter, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. B. Moller. Mr. Havard Burleigh and two members who were absent this week due to illness are in the instruction class.

Both boys and girls on Waveland's basketball teams are mighty happy this week. The order for their new uniforms has been made and the youngsters hope to have them soon. The teams go to Bay St. Louis Thursday afternoon where the girls will meet the St. Joseph sextette and the boys will meet the quintette from St. Stanislaus. The girls from Waveland have won one from the Academy this year. The boys lost, but hope for a win this week.

Children from the Waveland School who had their first polio shots several weeks ago received their second shots on Monday.

Weekly dances on Friday nights are still being held with good attendance at the Waveland School. The group is growing and plans are underway to build a community youth center. Your support is needed!

Best wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Miss Mary Margaret Turcotte, who has been ill with a bad cold.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

OUTLOOK

The overall farm outlook for 1956 is for continued strong domestic demand for farm products, about the same export demand, increased surpluses of major farm commodities. Lower support and market prices, higher production costs, tighter production controls and a further reduction in cash farm sales and net farm income. Prices of major farm products in heavy supply will continue to be depressed despite strong demand. Prices received by farmers are expected to average lower than last year. Prices paid by farmers will continue high. Feed, seed, fertilizer and some classes of livestock will be lower in cost, while machinery, motor supplies, wages, taxes, interest and industrial products may be higher. Production costs and operating expenses are expected to be about the same as in 1955. Both gross cash receipts from farm marketings and realized net farm income are expected to be down in Mississippi during 1956. Let's take a look at some individual crops.

Cotton: Supplies are a record high. Mississippi growers face a further reduction in acreage—a drop of six per cent from last year. The total supply is so far out of line with a normal supply at the present time that the Secretary of Agriculture could set the support level as low as 75 per cent of parity.

Beef Cattle: Prices are not expected to change much from 1955 although better grades may see improvement. Prices should at least be more stable, so that producers can better plan their production programs.

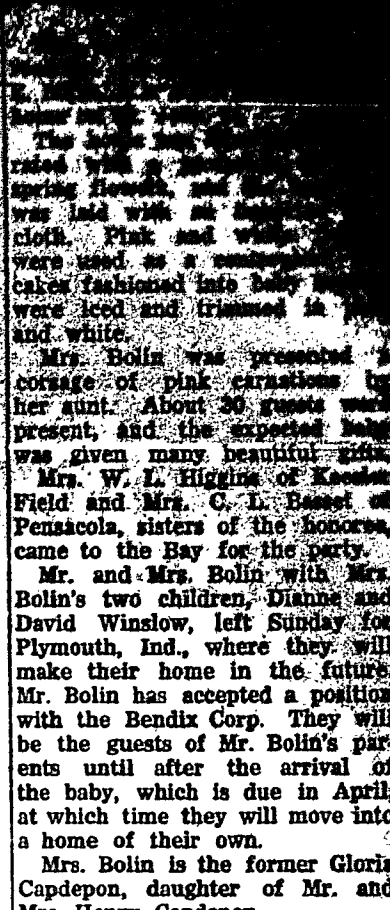

Hog prices may be lower during the first half of 1956, but the two-year price decline will probably end in the last half of the year. However, not much increase in prices can be expected before early 1957.

Sheep and lamb prices averaged lower in 1955 and not much improvement can be expected in 1956. Returns for wool will be about the same as in 1955 due to continued high support prices.

Dairy products prices will be influenced by the level of price supports to be announced for the marketing year beginning April 1, 1956. Cash receipts from dairy may increase some. With lower feed costs, net returns may be a little higher than in any of the past three years.

Poultry production, both broilers and eggs, have another year of high output in prospect. Both egg and broiler production probably equal or exceed record highs of 1955. Turkeys will likely exceed the record high of 1954.

Because of these prospective large supplies, prices are likely to be lower than in 1955, despite strong demand. The entire poultry industry is gradually adopting new production techniques which reduce unit production costs. The favorable recent experiences with poultry make it a natural choice of farmers seeking additional sources of Episcopal Guild II presents skit. A skit on the United Thank Offering was presented by three members of Guild 2 of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Episcopal Church at a meeting held Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Walter Gex Jr.

Mrs. Joseph Edwards, Mrs. W. W. Baltar and Mrs. Bruce Sharp took part in the skit. A devotional was conducted by Mrs. Edward Porter Jr.

The meeting was composed of the combined groups of Guild 1 and 2, and is one of the quarterly meetings of this kind held during each year. Mrs. Gex, with her mother, Mrs. H. A. Eldredge, who co-hosted, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

CARNIVAL BALL TICKETS NOW ON SALE

Mrs. Earl Buckley, chairman of the ticket committee of the Carnival Ball which will be staged at St. Joseph's Gymnasium by the Carnival Committee announces tickets may be procured by contacting her or any of the women on her committee. Working in Bay St. Louis are Mrs. Lawrence Jacobi, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. Ed Heath Jr., and Mrs. Horace Kergosien. Waveland women serving on this committee are Mrs. H. A. Frey, Mrs. B. C. Davis, and Mrs. Guy Drew.

Mrs. Buckley advises that tickets be procured early, as there are only a limited number sold each year, and especially those persons desiring reserved seats should purchase them now.

General admission is $1.00 and reserved seats are $1.00.

ARC SEWING GROUP DISCUSSES PROJECTS FOR COMING YEAR

Projects for the coming year were discussed at the January meeting of the Hancock County Volunteer Sewing Group of the American Red Cross.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wm Argus on S. Beach Blvd., with Mrs. Caroline Woodcock, Mrs. H. A. Thompson, Mrs. Paula Jenks, and Mrs. Nellie Nelson attending.

Cash farm income, particularly while feed prices remain lower than in recent years.
